Review recommendation of NPPRRC: New Paltz Town Police Department should engage in the De-escalation model provided by Chuck Wexler and the Police Executive Research Forum

Chief Lucchesi explained that NPPD already places an emphasis on de-escalation and incorporates PERF's Critical Decision-Making Model in its use of force policy and training. Much of our defensive action policy and training is grounded upon PERF's Guiding Principles on Use of Force and the Critical Decision-Making model. NPPD use of force teaches officers to differentiate between active violence and non-active violence, maximizing the use of distance and cover to create time for better decision making. Formally introducing PERF ICAT training this year. Lt. Butler attended PERF ICAT Train-the-Trainer training in November of 2021. ICAT stands for Integrating Communications, Assessment, and Tactics. It's anchored in the Critical Decision-Making model and combines elements of CIT and tactics.

Review recommendation of NPPRRC: We support the increasing work being done in Restorative Justice practices (currently juvenile only) and laud the work of the DA to move to 18-26-year-olds. We encourage greater collaboration between the DA, the NPPD, and programs like the One80 Initiative:

Chief Lucchesi explained that NPPD uses the One80 program and other juvenile restorative justice alternatives whenever possible. The Restorative Justice program for 18–26-year-olds is just starting and NPPD will utilize this as well. UC DA's Office has begun to refer cases to diversion programs. ADA's are tasked with identifying applicable cases. Starting point for these referrals is with the victim. Victim must be willing participant and these cases do not include serious personal crimes.
